

Oasis of The Primordials

By Adriel

Story

Lara Croft was working together with some researchers in the theory that the first civilization on earth, that gave origin to all other civilizations left remnants in all civilizations. They found remnants in north Africa of an ancient device that contained a massive stone that was fragmented. The stone was carved with the saying “elemental stones for the spiritual world”. Weeks later Lara made lots of research about stones in the ancient Egyptian myths, she knew that a part of this stone couldn't have gone far away. She found out that the Ahkn of primordials was a very powerful source of vital energy and made the Land fertile and it was used by a very ancient civilization to survive the conditions of the deserts. This had to be it, the element of earth stone was used as source to make this Ahkn. She made some theories about the location of the city and spend days searching for the place in the Sahara desert. She finally found the location, now it's time to explore to see what this Oasis of the Primordials holds secret from humanity.
